The Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA) Program collected data in January and February of 2020 through the TAA Administrative Collection of States (TAAACS). Data collected included information on state organization, eligibility procedures, integration with other programs, IT systems, training for staff, outreach, and other state policies.

This webinar discusses the initial results from this FY 2020 collection including both identifying what is common state practice as well as correlations between policies and participant metrics. This initial look at results provides an overview of results across all topics within the data collection such as staffing levels, the impact of case manager expertise, how eligibility determination policies impact participants, integration with other programs, common exit policies, co-enrollment policies, worker notification methods, and more.
